HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM LAST YEAR AND WHAT AFFECTED ITS PERFORMANCE?

The Tortoise Energy Infrastructure and Income Fund outperformed its benchmark, the Alerian MLP Index, which returned 31.1% for the fiscal year ending November 30, 2024. This robust performance stemmed from disciplined capital allocation, with company management teams maintaining healthy balance sheets, increasing dividends, repurchasing shares, and focusing on high-return projects. Pipeline companies capitalized on surging power demand fueled by data center growth and advancements in AI, prompting approvals for new natural gas projects. Strong U.S. LNG demand, slower EV adoption, and improved drilling efficiencies offset lower energy commodity prices and reduced fossil fuel risk. Energy credit markets also strengthened, accelerating cash flow growth across the sector.

The Fund remains focused on North American energy infrastructure, prioritizing companies with robust balance sheets and growing free cash flow to deliver shareholder returns through dividends and share repurchases. It holds substantial exposure to natural gas infrastructure, the Permian and Marcellus Basins, and key infrastructure connecting the Gulf Coast to the Atlantic Seaboard. In sum, for energy infrastructure companies, cash flow growth accelerated, with expectations for prolonged durability.

MANAGED DISTRIBUTIONS

The Fund may distribute more than its income and net realized capital gains; therefore, a portion of distributions may be a return of capital. A return of capital may occur, for example, when some or all of the money a shareholder has invested in the Fund is paid back to the shareholder. A return of capital distribution does not necessarily reflect the Fund's investment performance and should not be confused with "yield" or "income."
